Dinner Marks Advent of Gas To This Area

A dinner given by the Michigan Gas Company at the Hotel on Tuesday night of this week marked the advent of natural gas to north central Michigan. Delegates from cities and villages throughout the entire area were guests of the company. Principal speaker at the dinner was Fred J. McIntire, vice president in charge of sales for Michigan Gas Company.

Among Mr. McIntire's remarks, he stated: "It was late last summer when plans for bringing natural gas to this area were finally jelled. The enthusiasm shown by the governing bodies of this area and the customers to be served, for gas service, was a pleasant experience for us."

"When our sales representatives came to Grayling last winter to contact every potential industrial, commercial or residential customer, they were greeted warmly, and I am happy to say that as of this moment 67 per cent of the total possible customers have signed applications to receive natural gas service. This far exceeds the predictions of our market analysts."

At the time that we requested franchises, we assured the community of Grayling that, if granted the franchises, natural gas service would be available by September 1, 1964, and it goes without saying that we are highly pleased with the speed and efficiency with which our contractors have more than met this commission. Here we are tonight celebrating the arrival of gas one whole month earlier than we had predicted it would be here."

"For all practical purposes, we are now in the final stages of completion of a 13.5 million dollar construction program which has taken less than a year from the time the decision was made until the project is in being. In building this project, we are expressing 12.5 million dollars worth of confidence in the future of this part of Michigan."

"Included in the 67 percent of the total potential customers we find a great majority of Grayling's industrial establishments. This would include companies from the very largest to the very smallest. We are confident that the industrial growth in the Grayling area will continue, and we are quite certain that the availability of an abundant supply of economically priced natural gas will contribute materially to this economic growth."

"Our Industrial Development Department has added the Grayling area to other Michigan areas to which we are constantly striving to attract new industry and I know that the presence of natural gas has added another argument for your own industrial development committee to use in soliciting new business for the area."

"We have great confidence in the future of this part of Michigan and we look forward to becoming an integral part of your, and our, community."

371 CANDIDATES FILE FOR STATE OFFICES

LANSING — A record number of 371 candidates for state offices have filed nominating petitions for the September 1 primary election with the Elections' Division of the Secretary of State.

Offices range from Governor and U. S. Senator to state legislators. New offices — state courts of appeals which will be segmented into three districts — brought 33 candidates into the field for brand new judicial jobs that will guarantee the three top finishers in the general election terms of four, eight and six years, depending on the order of finish.

In addition to candidates who file with the Secretary of State, there are many more who have filed their petitions with their county clerks. This holds in districts which are within a single county and includes Wayne county in which comes of candidates are coming for legislative positions.

An election school for county clerks was held Wednesday, the 5th, at the Crawford County Courthouse. Bernice Appel of the Secretary of State's Election Office was in charge. Thirty clerks and deputy clerks from the surrounding counties attended.

Bound Over On Charge

James G. Petersen, 26, of Grayling was bound over to the October term of Circuit Court on a charge of manslaughter after a hearing before Justice of the Peace Olin Williamson last Thursday.

Petersen was represented by counsel, attorney Daniel Walsh of Gaylord. He waived an examination at the hearing and was automatically bound over for trial. He was released on the continuance of a $2,500 bond.

The charge developed out of a fatal accident which occurred on M-72 west of Grayling earlier on the morning of Saturday, July 18. Killed in the accident was a 16-year-old North Muskegon who was attached to the Michigan National Guard. Three others were injured in the accident.

State police, who investigated, said Black was traveling east and the other car, driven by Petersen, was going west. Officers said the Black vehicle was struck in the left side.

The mishap took place about four miles west of Grayling near the intersection of the Eagle Point Road with M-72.

Spanish Music Very Interesting

By Cheryl Smook EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the fourth in a series of articles being written for the Avalanche by Cheryl while she spends the summer in Spain as an exchange student in the Youth for Understanding program.

The most interesting thing I find in Spain is the music. The modern music is the same here as in the States but the music I am referring to is flamenco. Recently I visited the Zambra which is really a school of flamenco songs and dances. Zambra was created with the sole aim of enabling Spaniards to see and hear the pure, unspoiled folk-art of Andalusia, which was being forgotten and in danger of disappearing. No one has been able to say why the popular songs and dances and those who sing and dance them, should be known as flamenco. Today, the gypsies also sing and dance them, giving them their own special appeal but in origin the flamenco is from Andalusia.

There are two main kinds of flamenco: "cante chico" and "cante grande." Cante chico is always profound and is more cheerful than cante grande. Cante grande is pure song, expressing the tragedy and anguish of life. There are very few flamenco singers who know how to sing cante grande in its original purity. The Zambra, in Madrid, presents a flamenco troupe of the best flamenco dancers, singers, and guitarists in Spain.

Flamenco dances are composed of the singers, male and female dancers, guitarists, and "jaleadores," who clap the rhythm. The jaleadores are indispensable for their clapping creates the "son" or background rhythm, while their approval animate the dancers.

It is important to know how to listen to flamenco. At first, it may sound like so much noise, but if followed more carefully, its inner rhythm becomes clearer. Flamenco really needs no explanation, only that it be listened to in silence.

Everything about flamenco is exciting and to learn every part of a flamenco dance is very hard. I am taking flamenco guitar lessons and I know for sure that flamenco guitarists did not learn this overnight. They have spent many hard years of learning to play flamenco and I greatly respect them for it.

This week I am taking a trip to Andalusia with the rest of the exchange students. Being that flamenco originated in Andalusia there should be quite a bit of it and you can be sure that I'll be right there, clapping and shouting my "oles" with the "jaleadores."

Set 1965 Annual Field Training Dates

Michigan Army National Guard annual field training dates for 1965 were announced today by Major General Ronald D. McDonald, The Adjutant General of Michigan.

Majority of the troops assigned to the 46th Infantry Division will train July 10-24 at Camp Grayling. Armored units of the division, with supporting forces, will train at Camp Grayling July 17-31, General McDonald said.

Elsewhere, the 158th Signal Battalion, of Detroit, Adrian, Monroe, and Kalamazoo, will train at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, August 8-22.

Annual field training dates at Camp Grayling for out of state units are:

June 5-19: Armored Units, 38th Infantry Division, Indiana Army National Guard.

June 19-July 3: Brigade of the 102nd Infantry Division, U. S. Army Reserve, Missouri.

July 31-August 14: 38th Infantry Division, Indiana Army National Guard.

August 15-29: 37th Infantry Division, Ohio Army National Guard.

Michigan Mirror

Lack of familiarity by the voting public with an issue or office can be dangerous to both the candidates and the electorate.

This year such a danger exists, in theory at least, where the State Court of Appeals election is concerned.

One outstate candidate for the new court estimates that only one out of 100 voters knows that nine Appeals Court judges will be elected this fall and that each elector will cast a ballot for three candidates.

Being a non-partisan race, the judges ballot will be separate from other offices in both paper and machine precincts.

Elections officials say regrettable that frequently machine voters ignore non-partisan contests. These often, but still too frequently, the same thing occurs in paper ballot precincts where voters fire of their job before even looking at the nonpartisan contests and issues before them.

Many well qualified candidates, including local judges and present and former state legislators, have filed in the Appeals Court district races throughout the state. Failure by the voters to be familiar with these candidates could be costly. This court's nine judges will get many of the important appeals in the future. Wise minds must be selected for this heavy responsibility if the voters are to be properly served in the future.

Review Saturday Hoosiers Will Fire "Honest John" Again

Over 4,000 men of the 38th Infantry Division, Indiana National Guard arrived at Camp Grayling, last Sunday to begin their annual two week field training. High lighting this year's camp is the attachment of nearly 850 members of the Puerto Rican National Guard. This large unit arrived Sunday after being "airlifted" from Puerto Rico, and will train with the Indiana Guardsmen. This is the first time our neighbors from the south have trained in the continental United States. At the same time over 1,500 members of Gen. Hugh P. Harris made the statement while here for a two-day inspection tour of Ohio's 37th Infantry Division, which concluded training here last week.

Gen. Harris' visit was the first of a CONARC commander since the 37th began training at Camp Grayling and the first since 1957.

The energetic commander also had some complimentary words for the Buckeye Division, which may have recorded the most successful two-week encampment in its history.

"I was impressed with the units, the training and the exceptionally good spirit of the men," Gen. Harris said. "I was particularly struck by the military courtesy and the shape your equipment is in. Your good record coming up here shows that the equipment is well maintained."

TO HOLD FALL SAILING RACE AT LAKE MARGRETHE

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pierce and children Becky and Jeff and the William Glaspiess and two children, all of Royal Oak, came July 25th to spend two weeks at Lake Margrethe. They have been staying at the Wheeler cottages at Eagle Point. Mrs. Pierce is the daughter of the C. Ray Sniders of Grayling, and Mr. Glaspiess, son of the William Glaspiess Sr., who have a summer home on the Manistee near the CCC Bridge.

The two couples have a common interest, as they are owners of Wayfarer 16-foot sailing sloops, and both are members of Wayfarer Fleet Number Two, a group of about 25 Michigan couples whose common interest is a Wayfarer.

The fleet holds six regattas and participates in mixed sailing events each season to determine whose sloop is the fastest and which Wayfarer captain is the most skilled.

Another Approach

One approach to traffic safety improvement is to take the known hazards off the roads.

These include landmarks which cause blind intersections, dangerous curves on the roads themselves, and, probably most important, of all, the drivers who have had driving records.

Tough treatment on known bad drivers has been set down on the record books this year. Secretary of State James M. Hare reports more revocations and suspensions of licenses the first half of this year than ever before.

SEE MISSILE SHOT

Today, Brig. General Carson L. Niefert, Quartermaster General of Michigan, issued an invitation to interested Grayling people to witness the firing of the "Honest John," guided missile by the Indiana National Guard next Thursday, August 20th. General Niefert invites all interested people to meet him at the hotel at 9 in the morning. He will accompany the group in a convoy (you must provide your own transportation).

The Indiana Guard were flown to Camp Grayling, where they will train for the same two week period. This is the first year that a split in training sites has occurred.

Major emphasis on this year's training for the Division will be at the platoon level, and will be directed toward unit readiness to prepare the Division for rapid mobilization in the event of a call-up.

Once again this year, the Hoosier Guardsmen will participate in another "first" for the National Guard. A Battalion level test will be conducted under simulated combat situations. This will be the largest unit that is organic to an Infantry Division ever to be evaluated in a test of this type. The 38th Division Artillery will again fire a demonstration, highlighted by the firing of the "Honest John" rocket, and a special tank firing problem by the Puerto Ricans. This 2 1/2 ton short range missile will be fired on Thursday, August 20.

Gov. Matthew Welsh of Indiana and a contingent of notables will attend the annual parade to be held on Saturday, August 15th. The encampment will be climaxed by spending four days and nights in the field, where training will be conducted under simulated combat conditions.

PLAN BAND CONCERT

Weather permitting, the 38th Infantry Division Band of the Indiana National Guard and the Puerto Rican National Guard band will present a concert on the courthouse lawn this Thursday evening, Aug. 13th, at 8 p.m.

Indiana's band is directed by Warrant Officer Naumcheff as last year. Warrant Officer Alera is director of the Puerto Rican band.

The two groups will play a half-hour concert and then combine for some special numbers. The public is cordially invited to hear them.

County Welfare to Offer Free Clothing

The County Welfare Dept. has on hand a surplus of donated clothing which it will distribute free to the general public this Friday, from the county Old People's Home on M-72 east of Grayling. The public is invited to come and pick up anything they may use. Distribution will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

STUDY ATTRACTIVE — The increasing importance of Michigan's Indians as a tourist attraction and the growing role of community celebrations in stimulating travel were topics of discussion by state tourist leaders at the recent Mt. Pleasant-Chippewa Centennial. (L-R) State Senator Harold B. Hughes, Clare, chairman of the Senate Tourist Industry Relations Committee; Rep. Walter G. Nakkula, Gladwin, chairman of the House Tourist Industry Relations Committee; Gov. George Romney; Chief Willis Oshtongque (Crossing Cloud) Jackson, Chief of the Saginaw Chippewa and Rep. Russell H. Strange, Jr., Clare, reviewed the event.

On the positive side, however, Hare also reports that his office is attempting to step up its driver

Kirtland Nesting Area To Be Very Much Protected

The area located northeast of Grayling, and used by the Kirtland Warbler, will not be used for National Guard maneuvers before July 15th starting next year and continuing until the birds no longer are using the area.

Fenn M. Holden of Grayling who is a representative of the Michigan Audubon Society's Kirtland Warbler committee traveled into the area on July 29th in company with Brig. General Carson L. Niefert, Michigan's Quartermaster General and Billy Jim Kinkert, superintendent of Camp Grayling representing the Michigan National Guard. John Elych of Mio, District Game Supervisor and Ralph King of Grayling, District Forester, representing the Michigan Conservation Department.

In a letter to the Audubon Society, Mr. Holden reported following the meeting and inspection tour:

"It was agreed that for the next ten years or until such time as the warblers cease to use the area for nesting in large numbers, the area of the 2900 acre burn of 1955 would be off limits for tank maneuvers or any activity that would interfere with the nesting of the birds, between the dates of May 1st and July 15th. This does not bar the use of existing roads."

"It was further agreed that some time before the start of next year's maneuvers Messrs Kinkert, King, Elych and Holden would go over the area and outline as closely as possible all portions of the burn which are not potential Kirtland Warbler nesting habitat, the object being to reduce the area subject to the above restrictions as much as possible."

Mr. Holden concluded.

PLAN BAND CONCERT

Weather permitting, the 38th Infantry Division Band of the Indiana National Guard and the Puerto Rican National Guard band will present a concert on the courthouse lawn this Thursday evening, Aug. 13th, at 8 p.m.

Ohio's Buckeyes Wins Nod

The division as a whole received 5,184 superior ratings, 4,495 excellent, 46 satisfactory and just one unsatisfactory on its "Army grade card."

Training during the encampment just ended centered on small units and guerrilla-type problems. The division's Intelligence Section conducted 20 guerrilla-type incidents... ambushes and infiltrations... with the object of trying to capture as many division members and destroy as much vital equipment as possible without engaging in full-scale battles.

The lessons learned in Korea and more recently in southeast Asia were responsible for the stepped up guerrilla-type training.

Every weapon organic to the division except the Honest John Rocket was fired with live ammunition during the two-week training period.

The successful encampment just ended was the last for the division's commander, Maj. Gen. Loren G. Windom. Gen. Windom, who took command of the 37th in 1959, is scheduled to retire before the next summer encampment.

KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL

PONY TALES

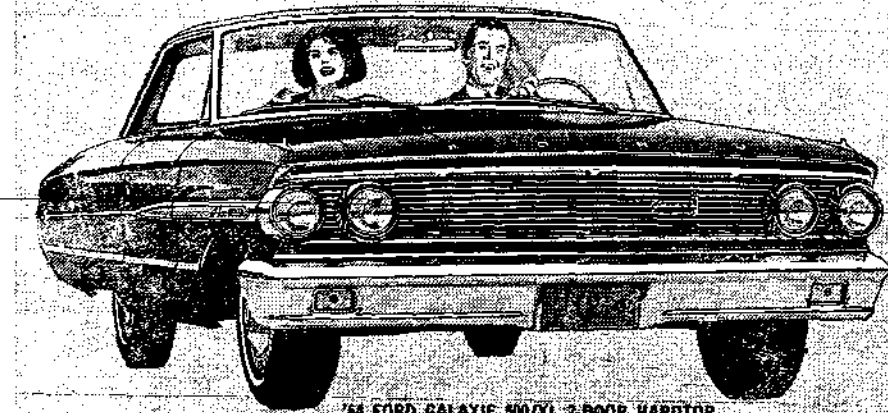

By JANET W. OLSON

Often an old horseman will tell you that a horse's brain is split down the middle and a lesson learned on one side must be learned all over again on the other side. Patience is something that anyone working with horses or ponies must have. If you have a young pony that you plan to start schooling it is best to work with him for short periods as his attention span will not be good yet. Keep your training periods down to one half hour twice a day. If your youngster has been handled since he was a foal you have a head start as he will feel confident around you and much more willing to learn. The first thing you must do is halter break your colt. If he is already used to a halter. We start putting a halter on the foals when they are two weeks old, as they are easy to handle then and by the time they are ready for lessons they are completely used to the halter. Never put a halter on a little foal and then leave him unattended for any length of time as often they will scratch at the halter with a hind foot and a tiny hoof can easily become caught.

After your pony is used to the halter you can start his lessons in leading. If you pull on the lead rope he will brace himself against it. Stand at his left side and hold the halter shank with your right hand about eight to ten inches from the halter snap, the excess halter shank should be carried in the left hand and it is wise to coil or fold it into a figure eight. In this way if the colt should rear or spook you can release your right hand and let the rope play out and still have your colt so he can't get away from you. As you lead your colt don't stand and face him, but rather turn your back on him as the chances of his following you when your back is to him are much better than if you face him and he feels that you are pulling him.

HINT FOR THE WEEK
A pony doesn't need shoeing as long as he keeps a good hoof and is not ridden on rocky or rough ground. If he is shod it is wise to pull the shoes in the winter to keep the snow from balling up in the hoof.

Anyone having a question concerning ponies, may write to Pony Tales, c/o Avalanche and your questions will be answered in the column.

A True Choice . . .

If hindsight were foresight, we would all be rich. That observation can be applied to Barry Goldwater's successful drive for the Republican presidential nomination. Not so many months ago most political pundits decided that Senator Goldwater, for all of his efforts, had next to no chance, and they dredged up all manner of evidence to substantiate that view. A betting man could have obtained excellent odds with a wager against him.

But history, as it has a habit of doing, has written a very different page. And the varied reasons, practical and philosophical, for the Goldwater victory are now evident.

For one thing, he had, and has, a dedicated organization which demonstrated the ultimate in political understanding and efficiency. The Goldwater effort was aimed squarely at the grass roots. It was conducted on a precinct-by-precinct basis. This didn't make headlines, but it did gather in determined and unmoving delegates.

For another, the Senator had proven his status as a real party man. He held the job of Chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee for three campaigns. It was his taxing duty to visit every state, time and time again, eliciting funds and other support for GOP Senators facing election fights whether or not their views on controversial issues squared with him. He thus placed the party in his debt. And, at the same time, he became known in every far reach of this country.

But there was another consideration that went beyond these political assets, important as they were in bringing about the result at San Francisco. Senator Goldwater, more than any other seeker of the nomination, promised and stood solidly for a program and a philosophy that will offer the voters a real choice come next November, whatever their decision may be.

The Senator has been accused of black reaction, and worse. It has been said that his candidacy could result in the destruction of the Republican Party. Cooler heads do not see it this way. It is difficult to believe, for instance, that one man could destroy either of the great parties with their millions of adherents. Then, as Raymond Moley wrote a while back in Newsweek, "What must be understood is that, according to the compilations of voting records by the Congressional Quarterly, the Republicans in the Senate have been more and more polarized against the liberal Democrats during the past five years. They have provided an authentic, responsible opposition." It can be added that deep cleavages in attitudes are not a Republican monopoly. The Democrats must deal with that problem too.

In other words, no matter what one may think of this view, Senator Goldwater presents a direct contrast to what is known as "me-tooism" — that being an attitude that offers the voters programs which are little different from those of the entrenched opposition. No man now nationally prominent in public life stands so solidly against what he regards as the unnecessary and destructive growth of federal power and in favor of individualism, private enterprise, personal liberty, and the responsibilities and rights of the states.

This, the Senator and his backers are convinced, represents the present mainstream of American thought. But that is another story — a dramatic and significant story which will not be told until the votes are tallied in November.

Abandonment today of Camps Kalkaska and Black Lake, for lack of enrollees, leaves four CCC camps in the upper peninsula and four in the lower peninsula on conservation department work projects, according to Geo. A. Young of the Michigan civilian conservation corps office in Lansing. Members of the veterans Black Lake company manning the camp are being transferred to Camp Wolverine in Hardwood State forest. Remaining upper peninsula camps now include Escanaba River, Cusino, Fox and Paradise units. Those left in the lower peninsula are Camps Wolverine, Pigeon River, Higgins Lake and Houghton Lake, all located in state forests. Since the Black Lake camp began work in 1933, enrollees have planted trees, made lake surveys and stream improvements, built telephone lines and fire towers, improved state parks and forest camping grounds, and fought forest fires. Work at Camp Kalkaska since it was started in 1935 included tree planting, development of Hanson game refuge, construction of Margrethe lake dam, game surveys, construction of truck trails, and fire fighting.

The Cheboygan Merchants came to Grayling Sunday for a baseball game with the local team and when the dust had cleared, Grayling had a 12-8 victory over the Northerners. Elmer Kellogg, Grayling pitcher, struck out five, walked one and hit two batters, while Zip Lyble, the losing pitcher, struck out six, walked one and hit one batter. Cheboygan had seven errors to Grayling's four.

When repeated smashing of a dam built by a nuisance beaver on Barker's Creek failed to discourage the beaver from immediate rebuilding, a combination of a spark coil, battery and wire strung over the dam quickly and effectively shocked it into realizing it should do its dam building elsewhere. HOLD FORTY-THIRD ANNUAL OAKS REUNION SUNDAY

The 43rd annual Oaks family reunion was held Sunday, August 9, 1964, at the Hartwick Pines State Park, The Oaks, with its branches, twigs, acorns and sprouts, was a giant of a tree this year. There were 120 members of the family present, and four guests.

We were honored this year by the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney McLeod of Homestead, Fla., formerly of Brewster, Minn. Mr. McLeod is from a branch of the family that moved from Michigan to Minnesota over 70 years ago. Letters were received from relatives in Minnesota, South Dakota, Washington, California, Wyoming and Montana.

Mrs. Hugh Oaks, 91, was the oldest present, and Edward Palmer, son of Junior and Betty Palmer, the youngest. Leora and Roberta Leavenworth of LaPue, Calif., granddaughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lemert, and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney McLeod of Homestead Fla., had traveled the farthest.

Everyone stuffed themselves at one o'clock from a table loaded with enough goodies to feed a young army.

After dinner the business meeting was held. We were sorry to have lost two members of the family, Oscar Deckrow of California and Mrs. Anna Rose of South Dakota. It was decided 101 to 28 to hold the 1935 reunion at Grayling. Officers elected were Leo Palmer, president, Hurl Deckrow, vice-president, Zina Vallad, secretary-treasurer, Helen Hatfield, alternate secretary, treasurer, Junior and Betty Palmer, entertainment committee.

After the business meeting the traditional games and races were held with Hurl Deckrow winning the bald-headed men's race. Hurl wore his prize, a full head of grey hair, for the rest of the day. The annual ball game ended in a tie due to the fact that John Deckrow, the annual umpire, likes to see everyone happy. Then we all lined up at the Pines store for ice cream.

Everyone was having a wonderful time but the coming of darkness and the distance to travel brought the day to an end.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kovach of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., spent a few hours visiting the Jack Wadsworth and also visited their children in Detroit before returning home. They have recently returned from a European tour where they visited Charles' birthplace and relatives in Hungary and were shocked to see the poverty there. They gave away all of their clothes to these people keeping just enough to get home in. They had entered Hungary on a visitors' visa, which could be cancelled at any time for statements not approved of by authorities. They were warned several times to be very careful of what they said.

Girl Who "Lost Out" Gives Good Advice

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am 17, going on 18. Lately I haven't been getting along with anyone very well because of a boy. I was going with this boy and liked him very much. We were happy together and loved to be with each other as much as possible. He had met my parents and a few of my relatives, who all liked him. I had also met his parents

I would be 22 when we really made the big decision. I had all my hopes up and was so happy! Last October, without any reason, he broke away and I haven't heard from him since. At first, I was furious. I thought my world had ended. My friends didn't help; all I got from them was pity. It has been three months now and I still think of him all the time. But, I haven't let my life end. I realize that someday I will meet someone else who will fill my heart with love and take away my pain.

To teenage girls who have or may have my problem, I say, "Don't let yourself go on hurting. Someone else will come along and make you much happier than the first person you thought was the 'certain someone.'"

Crawford County Avalanche
Thursday, August 13, 1964

sections of the country go for soda pop in a much bigger way than others. Residents of North Carolina, for example, drink four times as much per person as those in North Dakota.

Nationally, the outlay in the year for bottled soda came to a cool $4.5 billion.

Crawford County's contribution in this total was approximately $73,000, which compares with its 1960 outlay of $54,000. Higher prices were responsible for some of this increase.

The sudden surge in the use of soft drinks is attributed in part by the industry to the introduction of low-calorie beverages. They have made a big impact on the weight-conscious market, the reports show.

PAM MAUREN WEDS JACK HULL

An eleven o'clock Nuptial High Mass sung by the adult choir at St. Mary's church and vows exchanged before the Rev. Father Joseph Sakowski united in marriage Miss Pamela Ann Mauren and Mr. Jack Bruce Hull on Saturday, August 8th, 1964. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mauren of 665 Clyde Street, Grayling, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Hull of Stephan Bridge Road, Grayling. Bouquets of white cushion mums decorated the church altar. When the bride approached on the arm of her father, she chose a wedding gown of pure silk organza over silk taffeta, fashioned with elbow-length sleeves and scalloped portrait neckline graced with Alencon lace on a fitted bodice. Alencon lace appliques on silk organza complemented the full floor-length skirt which flowed into a chapel train. Her matching pillbox headdress with Bianchi rose accents secured her imported English illusion bouffant veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and white roses.

The bride's sister, Miss Karen Mauren, was maid of honor. Miss Teri Tarnack of Wyandotte, the bride's cousin, and Mrs. Jack Smith of Cass City, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They were identically gowned in seashell pink sheath dresses with floor-length skirts accented with floating back panels, fitted bodices with bateau necklines and elbow-length sleeves. Matching Panny original bandeaux completed their attire. Miss Karen carried a bouquet of red roses, the bridesmaids matching colonial bouquets of white carnations and red roses.

Duane Sloan served as best man. Ushers were Jack Sutherby of Wyandotte, the bride's cousin, Walter Johnson of Roscommon, Jack Smith of Cass City, and Frank Gross.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Mauren chose a mint green brocade sheath dress with matching jacket and accessories. Mrs. Hull was attired in a beige ribbon-knit sheath dress with matching jacket and accessories. Both mothers wore yellow tea rose corsages.

A breakfast for the bridal party was held at the Chief Shoppenagons Motor Hotel immediately following the ceremony. A seven-thirty reception for all the guests was held Saturday evening also at Chief Shoppenagons.

Mr. and Mrs. Hull will be at home to their friends at 504 Peninsular following a week's honeymoon. The bride wore a turquoise linen sheath with white accessories as her going-away costume. She is a graduate of Grayling High School and Cadillac School of Practical Nursing. Her husband also graduated from Grayling High and has completed four years' service in the U. S. Air Force.

Guests attending the wedding and reception were from Wyandotte, Jackson, River Rouge, Flint, Westphalia, Roscommon, Bay City and Saginaw.
